1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

2. (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
3. Claims 36-37 and 80 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ausnit (4,528,224) or Herrington (4,561,109) or Ausnit (3,853,671).

Ausnit ('224 or '671) relates to a web comprising a multiplicity of flexible interlocking fastener lips. Each of said connected to a fastener assembly which in turn comprises an engaging member that is interlocked and releasably connected to a complementary engaging member. the complementary engaging member being connected to a front wall portion of the web. As shown in the drawings, the web is in a roll form and the fastener tape is located perpendicular to the length of the web formed into a bag.

Similarly, Herrington relates to a web forming bags with releasable closure with a multiplicity of interlocking fastener lips.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 36-38 and 80 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ausnit (4,528,224 or 3,853,671) or Herrington.

Ausnit or Herrington, as discussed above, fails to teach the presence of several rolls packaged together. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide several rolls in a package for facilitating storage and transportation, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8.

6. Claims 36-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 36, the phrase "a fastener assemblies" is found to be indefinite as amended in preliminary amendment A.

7. The drawings have not been amended as per applicants' instruction in preliminary amendment A because "attachment C" could not be located therewith as stated.
